

FLOOD AT ROCKFORD WORST IN HISTORY OF CITY

Seven Dead in Steel Mill Explosion

COKE OVEN IS WRECKED THIS MORN AT GARY

Seventy-five Injured in Blast Which Wrecked Building.

Gary, Ind., June 14—(AP)—Seven men lost their lives, four of them instantly killed, in an explosion in the coke oven department of the by-products plant of the Gary works of the Illinois Steel Company today. The two-story coke oven plant was virtually wrecked by the terrific blast.

Two negro workers died of their injuries in the company hospital.

Lloyd Richardson, foreman of the coke ovens, and four negroes were the other victims.

Seventy-five others were injured, a dozen of them seriously, when the two-story brick building was wrecked by the blast.

Nearly all of the hundred or more men employed at the coke oven plant were injured by the terrific force of the explosion, which hurled them against the walls, breaking all glass and burying them under heaps of debris.

Physicians, nurses and all available rescue workers from the Mercy and Methodist hospitals hurried to the wrecked plant and began removing the dead and injured to the steel company's emergency hospital.

Attributed to Gas

The explosion occurred on what is known as the saturation floor of the by-products plant. While no authoritative statement could be obtained, it was generally attributed to gas. Fire departments were summoned, but there was little in the debris that was inflammable and nearby buildings were not endangered.

The wrecked building was about half a block long, with a sheet metal roof.

At noon firemen still were searching the crumpled mass of brick and steel for other victims.

Five May Not Recover

Steel company officials expressed themselves as puzzled by the explosion and an investigation into its causes was begun at once. The materials manufactured by the by-products plant are mostly highly volatile, but just what caused the explosion was a mystery.

Officials of the company's private hospital said that five of those seriously hurt are not expected to live, so the death toll may reach ten. Burns and broken limbs were the most serious injuries. Twelve are considered in a critical condition.

AN EARLIER REPORT.

Gary, Ind., June 14—(AP)—Five men were instantly killed, ten others probably fatally injured and 60 to 75 seriously hurt when a coke oven blew up early today at the By-Products plant of the Illinois Steel Company here. The explosion was believed to have been caused by gas.

The explosion started a fire in nearby buildings of the plant and all available apparatus at Gary, nearby towns and manufacturing plants was summoned, as well as all available ambulances and doctors. The fire was not considered serious.

Injured and dead were being brought in to the Illinois Steel Company hospital. More than an hour after the blast occurred the work of rescuing the victims was still going on and it was impossible to make a check of the number of men killed and injured.

Building Was Wrecked.

The coke oven department, a two-story brick structure, was completely wrecked, eye witnesses said, by the blast.

Bodies of the dead and injured were removed with difficulty.

All ambulances in the city of Gary were called out and the injured removed chiefly to the company's own emergency hospital. First reports that about 50 men were killed were greatly exaggerated, it was learned when the bodies were actually reached in the ruined coke oven plant.

Two hours after the blast rescuers still were searching the wreckage for other victims. The explosion occurred at 9:05 a. m., and was heard for miles. More than a score of the injured were reported in serious condition in the steel company's own hospital, known as the Gary hospital.

Many of the others suffered only minor injuries.

Mrs. Nell S. Julien of New York City expected here soon for a summer's visit at the home of Mrs. Charles Rosbrook of Peoria ave.

CLASS OF YOUNG FOLKS CONFIRMED HERE SUNDAY

St. Patrick's Catholic Church Scene of Impressive Service.

A class of 125 young people were confirmed at a special service at St. Patrick's Catholic church yesterday afternoon at 3:30, which was followed by the benediction. Confirmation was administered by Right Rev. Peter J. Muldoon, Bishop of Rockford; Father Prendergast was master of ceremonies and Rev. Fr. Quinn of West Brooklyn and Rev. Fr. McClellin of Tampico officiated as deacons. There were about 25 priests present from surrounding parishes, among whom were Rev. Fr. Burns of Sterling, Rev. Fr. Maguire of Polo, Rev. Fr. J. J. Clancy of Fulton, Rev. Fr. Wiedenkamp of Sublette, Rev. Fr. Kneale of Maytown, Rev. Fr. Cullen of Amboy, Rev. Fr. O'Brien of Rochelle, Rev. Fr. Flynn of Walton and Rev. Fr. Keenan of Prophetstown.

At the conclusion of the service, Bishop Muldoon delivered a very interesting address to the class.

Old Pals of 42 Years Ago Met Here on Sunday

A reunion of two former Pennsylvania "pals" and fellow school teachers, who had not seen one another in 42 years, was staged in Dixon Sunday, when Henry W. Leydig and wife entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker and son Robert and Miss Ida Frank of Johnson, Pa. The two gentlemen greatly enjoyed recounting events of two score years ago.

Mrs. Charles Leake and Mrs. Frank Philpott have returned from a visit with relatives in Springfield.

Misses Florence and Bessie Bolbach will go to Chicago tomorrow morning.

BODY OF OGLE CO. YOUTH, DROWNED IN CREEK, FOUND BY SEARCHERS SUNDAY P. M.

Boy Met Death When Attempting to Cross Swollen Stream.

Oregon, June 14—The body of Henry Gall, 19-year-old farm hand, who met his death Friday evening in the swollen Elkhorn creek, was recovered about noon Sunday, after a force of about 80 volunteers working under the direction of Deputy Sheriff George Banning, had labored diligently through Saturday in an effort to locate it.

Gall was employed on a farm near Brookville, and Friday evening as was his custom, went to the pasture for the cows. It is believed that he removed his clothes when he reached the creek, which he was obliged to cross in order to reach the cattle. His clothing was found hanging on a fence, and it is presumed that the young man tried to cross the stream, which was considerably swollen, due to the heavy rain, by clinging to the fence which also passed through the water. It is thought that he slipped and fell into the water, or that the fence gave way under his weight, as his cries were heard for some distance, but none realized the situation. Evidence of the drowning was not discovered until the lad's clothing was found hanging on the fence near where the fence crossed the swollen stream.

Throughout the day Saturday a force of about 80 men searched for the body. Dynamite was exploded in deep holes in the creek and various methods of dragging the stream were adopted. At a point some distance from the scene of the drowning, drift wood and rubbish caused the water to raise at the rate of about five feet in 30 minutes. This natural dam was dislodged and a guard placed at the point where Elkhorn creek empties into Rock river, in an attempt to recover the body.

Dixon Memorial Assn. Chose New Officers Saturday

The annual meeting of the Dixon Memorial association was held Saturday evening at the G. A. R. hall. Officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows:

President—F. M. Goodwin.
Vice Pres.—Rae Arnold.
Secretary—Miss Ruth Smith.
Treasurer—John E. Coakley.
Finance Committee—J. A. Snyder, chairman; Sam Cushing and Mrs. Mae B. Cupp.

A resolution was adopted in which the association extended its thanks and appreciation to the Y. M. C. A. Boys' band for music furnished on Memorial day, to the citizens of Dixon and vicinity for the many beautiful flowers donated and automobiles for the transportation of the comrades. A vote of thanks was also extended to each and everyone who took part in the program in any way and also to the children who participated in the parade and in the decoration of the graves at Oakwood cemetery.

Hughes Will Take Lake Water Testimony in Sept.

Washington, June 14—(AP)—Charles E. Hughes has indicated that he will act as special master in the lake water diversion controversy, and will begin the taking of evidence next September.

RUSSELL SCOTT'S PLEA TO SUPREME COURT DENIED; HE MUST STAND SANITY HEARING

BULLETIN

Chicago, June 14—(AP)—Judge Marcus Kavanagh today continued until June 21 the sanity hearing of Russell T. Scott, convicted murderer of a Chicago drug clerk, shortly before word was received from Springfield of the supreme court's denial of defense pleas for a change of venue and habeas corpus writ.

Scott will be brought before Judge Kavanagh in criminal court next Monday to face once more a test of his sanity. He escaped the gallows last year when he was found to have become insane since the murder of Joseph Maurer in the robbery of a drug store.

Springfield, Ill., June 14—(AP)—Petitions for change of venue and habeas corpus filed by Russell P. Scott were denied by the supreme court here this morning. Scott is serving under sentence of death for murder of Joseph Maurer in the Cook county jail, pending a sanity retrial.

This means that Scott's sanity will be determined by a jury in the court of Judge Marcus Kavanagh, and that he is definitely denied a return to the Chester state hospital for criminal insane. The supreme court ruled that the judge in the lower court was the proper authority to act on such petitions.

In case Scott is found sane by the jury he will be handed over to the sheriff for execution of the death sentence.

The court's ruling was that it "had no authority to review by writ of mandamus the decision of a judge in matters within his jurisdiction involving judicial discretion. The remedy for such errors lies in a review of the proceedings of the court by a writ of certiorari."

Flag Day Program at Elks' Club If It Rains This Eve

The regular Elks' Flag day services will be held this evening, the program starting promptly at 7 o'clock. In case of bad weather, services will be held in the club house, Jude Harry Edwards delivering the address. The public in general is invited.

GLOOMY CRAVAT BARRED SUNDAY; TO BE DAD'S DAY

"Old Man" Will Get It In the Neck With Necktie Then.

Father, who so often gets it in the neck, will have his cervical region observed in a more delightful way next Sunday.

Are you an admirer of tatty neckwear? So is your old man. For that reason, Dixon stores have been stocking up with neckties of quality in observance of Father's day.

Mother has her day. She has her songs, too, like "Honest, Dear Mother, I Love You," "Mother Machree," "M is for the Million Things She Gave Me," "That Old Fashioned Mother of Mine," and many others. But counting those 872 mammy songs. But the one tune consigned to father was insulting—"Everybody Works But Father."

So, fleeting recognition of the good old guy who keeps the wolf from the front porch will be held June 20.

It's Dad's Turn Now.

If you are not a father, buy a gay or quiet tie, as the taste may be, for the family gaffer. He's probably only got two now and he uses the polka-dotted one for Sundays and church picnics.

Women are expected to flock to the stores and shower old daddies, or whatever silly name you call him affectionately, with these service ribbons.

There's nothing that takes the curse off an Adam's apple so much as a good-looking necktie, and the windows of Dixon toggery shops will be filled with a record variety of patterns.

They're All Young Fellers.

One writer has suggested that window artists should bear in mind that there are few old men today. Some are simply younger than others. Mourning husbands should be barred from the big parade.

In other days the shopkeepers used to bring out the saddest looking ties in a window to foist upon pa. Some of the patterns looked as if he might have been careless with a noosebell. When he dared wear them at all, it was at a masquerade or hard time party.

Bar Gloomy Cravats.

But the gloomy cravat and the hysterical rainbow-hued kind have vanished together and the safe-and-sane variety is popular.

A father, Dixon merchants aver, should be decorative as well as useful. Hence this day.

Superintendent Bates & Rogers Co. Moves Away

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Brown and two children of New York City, who have made their home here for the past several months, left this morning for Chicago to spend a few days and then motor back to New York. Mr. Brown was in charge of the Bates & Rogers construction company's operations in building the new addition to the west end steam plant and during their stay here he and his family resided at the Lincoln Way. Mr. Brown will remain in Chicago at the head office of the construction company for a few days. The Bates & Rogers company have practically completed their work in building the addition and other contractors are now installing the steam turbines and finishing up the interior work.

Cochet is Winner Big International Tourney

Paris, June 14—(AP)—Henri Cochet today won the International hard court tennis tournament, singles championship, defeating Rene Lacoste in straight sets at 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

INTENTION TO RESIGN SENT BY TELEGRAM

Is Second Nation Western Hemisphere to Quit the League.

Geneva, June 14—(AP)—Brazil has resigned from the League of Nations. This announcement was made officially this morning.

Article one of the league covenant stipulates that any member, after two years notice of its intention to do so, may withdraw from the League (provided all its international obligations and all its obligations under this covenant shall have been fulfilled at the time of withdrawal).

Brazil's resignation, which reached the secretary-general, Sir Eric Drummond, today in the form of a cable message from Felix Pacheco, Brazilian foreign minister, says:

"In a statement of reasons sent to Ambassador Melo Franco and already published by the League of Nations and communicated to all its members, Brazil resigned her place as a temporary member of the council."

"This statement of the Brazilian position said at the end that Brazil awaited the opportunity to complete her act by draining the honor to go a member of the League."

"Having just received notice of the convocation of the September assembly, at which she cannot be represented, Brazil, feels it her duty to declare that this circumstance imposes the necessity to formulate now and she does formulate it by the present communication, her resolution to withdraw from the League, this dispatch to be considered as the notice prescribed by the latter part of article one of the covenant."

"I take the opportunity to reiterate assurance of my high consideration."

Caused Consternation.

Brazil's resignation created consternation in League circles. It follows Brazil's earlier act in resigning from the League council because of the refusal of the powers to grant her a permanent seat simultaneously with Germany, which was promised one at the Locarno conference.

The powers planned to placate Brazil and Spain by promising them support for regular reelection as non-permanent council members, thus giving them, in effect if not in name, permanent memberships.

Although she has resigned, Brazil remains a member, by virtue of the covenant for two years from the time when the message was sent.

Brazil now is in the same position as Costa Rica, which gave notice of her resignation in December 1924, and which thus is entitled to withdraw legally next December.

Lee Center Youth to Grand Jury for Theft of An Auto

Rolland Blankenship, 18 year old Lee Center youth, was held to the September grand jury under bonds of $1,000 late Saturday afternoon by Justice J. O. Shaulis. Joseph Nicholson of Lee Center, by whom the young man has been employed, signed the bond. Blankenship was arrested following an investigation conducted by State Automobile Investigator Emmerson Fellows of Morrison who located a Ford touring car in Dixon Friday evening which had been stolen the week before in Ambly. Blankenship is said to have admitted the theft of the car.

Officers Called to Farm House Saturday

Deputies from the sheriff's office were summoned to the C. J. Dickey and Harry Carson farm homes about five miles south of town on the Peoria road Saturday night. The Carson family were away from home and about 10 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Dickey observed prowlers about the Carson home which is directly across the road. A few minutes later a strange man appeared on the porch at the Dickey home but was frightened away. The officers responded but the bold intruders had evidently left when Mr. and Mrs. Dickey were aroused from their slumbers and nothing was disturbed at either of the homes.

PRIMARY FUNDS IN ILL. TO BE NEXT IN PROBE

Sen. Investigators Plan "Once Over" for Expenses in State.

Washington, June 14—(AP)—Although it has advanced far into the tangled story of the Pennsylvania republican primary campaign, the Senate investigating committee has a number of important witnesses on its list yet to be heard and is steadily issuing subpoenas as the testimony develops new leads, holding promise of aid in the untangling process.

Representative Vane, the candidate for the senatorial nomination, is among those whose testimony remained to be taken when the first week of the investigation ends.

Senator Pepper and Governor Pinchot, the candidates defeated by Vane, have been heard.

Some members of the committee would not be surprised to see the total of expenditures credited in the records to the various organizations in the three-way campaign—now nearly $1,500,000—considerably increased before the Pennsylvania inquiry ends.

When the long chapter on Pennsylvania is completed, the committee plans to turn to another populous state—Illinois—for what promises to be a second sizeable chapter on primary expenditure and methods.

Still another possible hunting ground for the investigators is Ohio.

Stolen Auto Truck Found East of This City; Loot Missing

A Reo truck, stolen by thieves who burglarized the Sterling Wholesale Company's warehouse in Sterling Saturday night and on which the robbers hauled away about $1200 worth of cigarettes and tobacco in original cases, was found abandoned on "Lovers Lane" east of Dixon, Sunday where the big machine ran out of gas. The tobacco was not in the truck, however, and it is believed the thieves transferred their loot to another car. About $10 in change was also stolen from the warehouse by the thieves, who evidently were acquainted with the arrangements of the institution.

Johnson Gets Govt. Pension for Widow of Steward Veteran

Congressman William B. Johnson succeeded in getting three pension bills through congress, during his first session. One of the three bills was one introduced for the relief of Mrs. Cristofa Preston of Steward, this county. He introduced the bill early in the session. It passed the House on Feb. 26, 1926. It passed the Senate on May 28, 1926. It will now be signed by the President. The many friends of Mrs. Preston, who is now of advanced age, will be delighted with the news and will have a friendly feeling for the congressman for his untiring efforts for the relief of this widow of a Civil War soldier.

Busy Meeting Board of Supervisors Ahead

The regular June meeting of the Lee county board of supervisors convened this afternoon at 1:30 at the court house, with the prospect for a considerable amount of important business to come before the body. With the opening of the session this afternoon, bills were referred to the respective committees and adjournment was taken until tomorrow morning.

ELEVEN MEN FINED IN LOCAL POLICE COURT OVER WEEK END; LIQUOR AND AUTO OFFENSES

The local police court was very active over the week end and several cases coming to the attention of Justice J. O. Shaulis who presided. "Jody" Whipple and Lucia Bailey paid fines of $10 and costs for being intoxicated; Lester Wiley was fined $3 and costs for permitting the motor of his car to run while he was absent; Joe Zampini was fined $20 and costs for being drunk and disorderly; John Zinke of May township, a former Dixon resident, was fined $10 and costs for driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition and Arnold Shure, of Peoria, was fined $25 and costs on the same charge. William Hartman paid a fine of $3 and costs for breaking glass on the streets; Martin Lechner and James Thompson were fined $10 and costs each for being intoxicated and Lowell Longendorfer paid a fine of $3 and costs for failing to stop at the Peoria avenue traffic light.

DAMAGE OF HALF MILLION IN FOREST CITY; LEE CO. AND ENVIRONS ESCAPE LUCKILY

Six Bridges Out in Winnebago Co.; Many Leave Homes.

Fall Here Less Than Inch; Beach at Lowell Threatened.

Rockford, Ill., June 14—(AP)—Rockford today is digging out from under the mud, debris and general ruin left in the wake of Sunday evening's flood, the worst in the city's history. No casualties are reported, but the property loss probably will reach half a million dollars. The water has receded this morning, but Rock River is high.

Large areas were submerged in the city and outlying districts. Foundations of homes were undermined, bridges wrecked, basements in the downtown section flooded, highways torn up and lumber yards swept away.

Hundreds of persons in the southeast part of the city fled from their homes. Scores, trapped by the rapidly rising waters, were rescued by firemen, policemen and volunteers using boats, canoes and rafts. Some were forced to remain on the second floor all night.

State Highway Covered.

A mile of water covered the Grant Highway east of the city, holding up hundreds of motorists. At the southeast edge of the city a lake a mile wide was created.

A street cave-in flooded the Rockford Daily Republic's plant, causing a heavy loss to equipment and paper. The water mounted to the keyboard of the linotype machines. The Rockford Morning Star lost most of its stock of print paper. The Register (Gazette's) loss is nominal. The Republic is using the Star's plant today.

The county highway department has information that six bridges have been wrecked.

GENERAL STORM REPORT

Chicago, June 14—(AP)—Late spring storms in the midwest have brought floods and high water and drought relief. Ten are known to be dead and thousands of dollars in property damage has resulted from the series of storms since Friday, the last sweeping over the section last night.

Rockford early today was experiencing its worst flood in 35 years with hundreds of homes flood-bound. Many persons were forced to flee from their homes, while others took refuge in upstairs rooms. No one was drowned as far as had been learned. A number of bridges were washed away. Rainfall during an hour and a half late yesterday amounted to 4.41 inches. Damage was estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

Two Killed in Chicago

A heavy rain storm, accompanied by a severe electrical disturbance, swept Chicago yesterday, flooding streets and water in the streets interrupted automobile and street car traffic. Two men were killed, one when struck by lightning and the other when he attempted to move a fallen live wire.

Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Nebraska reported heavy rainfall, which in some sections did damage to crops which four days ago were threatened by drought. Hail fell in some sections of Iowa yesterday.

Streator, a village in southeastern Nebraska, was swept by high winds which damaged practically every building in the town, according to meager reports. Rain followed the wind. No one was injured so far as it is known.

Rockford Bore Brunt.

Rockford bore the brunt of the latest storm, which broke there late yesterday afternoon. Water from Keith Creek inundated a large part of the southeast area of the city. In a number of streets the water reached a depth of eight feet and hundreds of families on the second floor of their homes were trapped.

HEMMED IN THREE HOURS

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Dauntler, Mr. and Mrs. Will Dauntler and Mr. and Mrs. George Mathias were hemmed in with hundreds of other cars east of Rockford for almost three hours during Sunday afternoon's storm. The party had left Rockford at noon driving to Beloit and were returning about 3 o'clock when the storm broke. Many cars drove off the paving under the trees while the Dixon parties continued until about three miles from Rockford when they were halted by a long line of cars.

A bridge of the Black Hawk Trail route 2 had washed out as a Ford car was crossing, the car being swept into the torrent, but the driver escaped. After a long wait in the cloud burst, another bridge back of them washed out and prevented their going back to Beloit.

SENATE EXPECTS TO REACH VOTE
ON M'NARY BILLDiscussion of Farm Relief
Measure to Be Curtailed Today.

Washington, June 14—(AP)—The Senate expects to dispose of the McNary equalization farm relief measure this week through limitation of discussion after today's session.

As the vote approaches proponents of the plan are increasing their efforts to gain support among democratic senators from cotton-producing states, without which they concede the measure would be defeated. Democratic leaders, however, fear that support of the measure might place them in a false position with respect to their attitude on the tariff, and hold that a general reduction of import duties would provide more effective relief for the farmers.

Managers of the bill already have agreed to provisions for a two-year suspension of the proposed equalization fee on cotton and the application of $75,000,000 to the handling of cotton surplus, and also have acceded to the objection of other senators to inclusion of cattle among the "basic commodities" on which the fee would be levied. At the same time, a similar agreement affecting either corn or hogs was indicated, leaving only wheat and one of those commodities to pay the fee immediately, with cotton coming under the levy two years later.

More Resumes Job

Collecting Garbage

Henry Morey this morning resumed his former duty, that of collecting garbage throughout the city. The contract for the removal of garbage was awarded to Fred Hyers this spring by the city council, but owing to a serious illness with which he has been afflicted for several weeks, Mr. Hyers surrendered his obligations to the former collector. Irregularities in collection due to the illness of Mr. Hyers will be remedied as rapidly as possible under the new system.

Commissioner Charles E. Miller of the department of public health and safety stated today that co-operation of citizens would greatly increase the efficiency of garbage collections. Citizens are requested to place their garbage cans where they may be easily and quickly found by the collector and a schedule of collections has been arranged as follows: Monday and Thursday, east end of the city; Tuesday and Friday, west end; Wednesday and Saturday, north side.

Two Peoria Base Ball

Players are Released

Peoria, Ill., June 14—(AP)—Paul Sperra, local third baseman of the Three Eyes League club, was last night given his outright release by Manager Bill Rodgers. Gus Kotchum, rookie pitcher, obtained from Springfield was also released. With this announcement, comes the news that Babe Thomas who was loaned to Bloomington will return to play first base for Peoria. Frank McGee regular first baseman will be shifted to second or third.

Justice Farmer is Able to Leave Hospital Today

St. Louis, Mo., June 14—(AP)—The condition of William M. Farmer, justice of the Illinois Supreme Court, was so much improved today that he left St. John's Hospital here for his home at Vandalla, Ill. He came to the hospital last Wednesday for treatment for a stomach ailment and for a time it was feared an operation would be necessary.

Col. Frank Smith Will

Recover from Operation

Chicago, June 14—(AP)—Col. Frank Smith, republican nominee for U. S. senator from Illinois, was reported on the way to recovery today after an operation for gall stones and gall bladder trouble last Saturday.

Mrs. Smith, who came from her home in Dwight, Ill., with Col. Smith is remaining at his bedside. It is expected that the Colonel must remain at the hospital three weeks, after which a California trip is under consideration.

Sect Split Over
Use of Buttons on Members' Clothing

Watertown, N. Y., June 14—(AP)—A schism among the Methodists loomed today as delegates assembled in annual conference at Kirchnerville, a Lewis county hamlet.

The "meet point" is one of some importance—whether adherents to the faith, first formulated in Holland in 1864 shall wear buttons on their clothing or whether they shall continue to depend on the hook and eye, time-honored practice of those plain dressed folk of simple faith.

The controversy has divided the sect into hostile camps. One, the modernist young generation, favors abolition of the buttons and eyes. The other, the fundamentalist wing, stands by the old custom. Both are equally certain of the rightness of their cause.

Other points at issue, which the conference will attempt to smooth out, are newspaper reading and automobile riding. Both are banned now as sinful, along with war and education. The sect considers that guns are tools of violence, avoids litigation, and never attends the theater.

The delegates, from Canada as well as the United States, are largely from Iowa, Illinois and Pennsylvania, but smaller groups claim other states as their homes. The conference will be in session until controversial matters are settled.

Kiwianians Will Hear

at Tuesday Luncheon

Dr. B. J. Palmer, owner of the WOC radio broadcasting station at Davenport, and the chiropractic college which bears his name, will be the guest of the Dixon Kiwanis club at noon tomorrow. Dr. Palmer's lectures during the winter months, recounting his travels which were world wide, were heard by many in Dixon and vicinity over the air. The speaker will give one of these talks before the Kiwanians at their regular weekly luncheon Tuesday noon at 12:30 in the parlors of the Christian church.

Each member of the club will be permitted to take one guest to this meeting as arrangements are being made to care for 100. The speaker's committee of the Dixon Kiwanis club has been very fortunate in securing Dr. Palmer for this occasion, as he is in constant demand by luncheon clubs throughout the central west.

Lions of State Give

Allegiance to Flag

Springfield, Ill., June 14—(AP)—Lions of Illinois opened their seventh annual state convention here this morning. By night between 1200 and 2000 delegates are expected.

The Waukegan and Herrin delegates opened campaign headquarters competing for 1927 convention.

In observance of Flag Day, the members of the convention in their opening session renewed their oath of allegiance to the flag. Scott Lucas, Department Commander of the American Legion, leading.

Durkin Trial Entered

Third Week This Morn

Chicago, June 14—(AP)—The third week of the trial of Martin J. Durkin for the killing of Edwin C. Shanahan, federal agent, opened today with four jurors to be selected. Two weeks have been required to assemble two panels of jurors, the last four having been accepted by state and defense attorneys Friday.

Two in Hospital Result

Quarrel of Resort Owners

Verona, Ill., June 14—(AP)—William Modill, proprietor of a soft drink parlor and Fred Hamilton are in a hospital here with bullet wounds as a result of a shooting affray Saturday night. They were shot by James Fleming, owner of another soft drink parlor across the street from Modill's shop. The men had quarreled earlier in the evening. Fleming fled from the city in an automobile.

CRICKET SONG—

The cricketer marks the mounting sun
That makes an April meadow green;
He knows, as April's course is run,
That May will be as May has been.
Since Hambleton men of old renown
Pitched their stumps on a Hampshire down.

The cricketer marks the blackthorn spray
Turn snowy whilst the blackbird sings—
At least he will who knows the way
The Season came in former Springs
When Hambleton men of old renown
Pitched their stumps on a Hampshire down.

The cricketer marks the crease at last,
With flashing arm the ball is bowled;
One cries, "O' Summer, not too fast!"
As one perhaps cried, "Summer, hold!"
When Hambleton men of old renown
Pitched their stumps on a Hampshire down.

—Harold W. Timperley, in The Observer (London).

Seven "Good Scouts" Will Need Help

Speaking of Girl Scouts and every one is speaking nowadays of either the Girl or Boy Scouts. It has been brought to our attention since Saturday that there are seven Girl Scouts who need financial assistance to be able to go to camp, the camp starting Friday of this week, the 18th. On Saturday it was mentioned in this column that some of the girls would need assistance, but no definite number was given. Now, it is known that seven girls, and maybe another too modest to let it be known as yet, need to be assisted in order to enjoy the benefits and joys of the Camp. The camp in the summer is really the play-hour of Scout life, for boy or girl, and the youngsters look forward to it all the year as the pinnacle of enjoyment. Camp life, for the scouts, properly supervised, means advantages and gains in health and happiness. If there is anyone who would like to help a good scout over a difficult hill, communicate with Mrs. W. A. Rhodes of Second street, her phone number being 1310. Seven dollars for each girl is needed to take them through a week of camp, but if anyone would like to donate a smaller sum it will be thankfully received. Dixon will not let a few small girls grieve for the rest of the summer because they could not join their companions in the Scout playtime.

Thursday Reading Circle Meet

The Thursday Reading Circle met Thursday afternoon with a good attendance at the home of Mrs. Wm. Stark.

Mrs. Nate Morrill and Miss Ora Floto sang a double number.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

Women and Homes

Are you a properly treated wife? If so, your home equipment will include one carpet sweeper, one hair broom, one chemical floor mop, one polishing mop, one self-wringing mop, one wool mop for walls, one weighted brush for waxed floors, one long-handled scrub brush, dustless dusters, knife and fork cleaner, metal polishes, one power unit to whip eggs, cream, mix batter, knead bread, grind meat, one sewing machine, one grill, one electric fan, one electric pad, one electric heater, one electric washing machine (or water power), one wringer, one clothes dryer, one electric iron, one washboard, one clothes sprinkler, shirt and stocking drying forms, one ironing machine, folding ironing-board table, folding sleeve-board, bread mixer, dish dryer, electric dish washer, cake mixer, steam pressure cooker. The list comes from a national Household Institute. We can imagine it furnishing grounds for some fifteen thousand divorce cases!

The Ideal Hostess

I have stumbled across these rules as ingredients in the recipe for an ideal hostess. An you qualify? Learn the mechanics of the home so well that they become unconscious operations.
Take advantage of every time and labor saving device and have physical and mental strength for your guests.
Budget the family income and have funds for entertaining.
Study human nature; know your guests.
Be self-effacing, kind, considerate.
Lead the conversation along pleasant lines and patch up differences of opinion.
Ignore any mishaps or mistakes.
Be sympathetic, poised and natural.

Wedding Gifts

If one is merely a formal acquaintance of a bride and groom and is merely invited to the church ceremony and not to the home reception or breakfast, a gift is not a social obligation.

Faces and Sunburn

The summer girl is between the w. k. diabolic one and the deep blue sea when it comes to keeping her beauty. If you go without a hat, some beauty experts tell her, your hair will grow mellow with red-gold lights. If you go without a hat, say other beautifiers, your skin will grow red as a lobster, dry as Melba toast, and brown as a nut. I lean to the latter faction, but I suggest the use of vanishing cream before swimming or hiking in the sun, cream cleanse at night, and a face bath in sour milk or cream.

Your Home's Beauty

All good home color schemes, say the decorators, use complementary hues rather than analogous harmonies. Thus, green, blue, yellow, orange, red and purple are prime colors. If blue is a basic color in a home scheme, green and purple would be analogous colors, but orange is a complementary color and would be much better with the blue than the purple or green. Study cretonnes for their lesson in the use of colors.

Funny Kidlet Stories

"Aren't there any funny stories to read to the youngsters?" It seems to me that every time I pick up a fairy book, the story's all about the cruel stepmother who fed the lovely girl poison, and the king who put his son in a cinder of boiling oil—and that stuff! writes "A Mother" to me.
Then you don't know Pyle's "Pep-per and Salt" book of stories, or Bryant's "Stories to Tell to Children," which includes the rollicking tale of "Epinondas"; Thorne-Thomson's "East of the Sun and West of the Moon," with its story of "Husband Who Was to Mind the House," and Wiggins' "Tales of Laughter."

Plain Woman Speaks

All females of the species raised to believe that virtue is its own reward and that happiness awaits the good girl, will appreciate the irony of Roxana B. White's "A Plain Woman to Her Rival."
"Yes, you are beautiful. I, who would rejoice at any flaw in the perfection of your loveliness admit your beauty. They told me, 'character and soul are all that count.' And so I cultivated soul."
"But when I smilingly perform some sacrifice he passed it unnoticed, while your demure pout entrances him. And when I suffer I smile and leave unshed the tears that sting against my lids. He does not notice. But you weep and with his handkerchief he dries your eyes and kisses them!"
"Yes, you are beautiful. But you will weep when time threads gray into your hair and weaves your cheek with wrinkles. And I shall laugh! For plain women have no fear of Age!"

THE DIET MANIA.

Reducing body weight, as the General Federation of Women's Clubs agrees, has become "a national mania," especially with the fair sex. This resolution, adopted in their national convention, is timely:

"Whereas, Many women and girls have injured their health by reducing nostrums and wrong and injurious methods of dieting, and by bringing themselves below their normal healthy weight, while others are dangerously overweight, and

"Whereas, There at present are no adequate tables which tell women what they ought to weigh, therefore be it

"Resolved, That we urge the women of America not to imperil their health and that of future generations by reducing methods other than those advocated by reliable physicians."

It is doubtful whether any nation of former times ever treated physical shape and weight as a matter of style, changing bodies along with clothes, as this generation of Americans is disposed to do.

It is done mostly in quest of beauty, which is a desirable ideal. But the Greeks developed more beautiful bodies than ours, without starving themselves and inviting diseases of malnutrition. They were content to be neither fat nor lean, choosing the middle way.

The Italians and the Dutch in their greatest periods of artistic development were inclined to be stout, and evidently considered that no blemish, as their masterpieces show.

The Venus of Milo and the Sistine Madonna would probably be expected today to adopt a fool diet, and wreck their process.

SAVE THE STATEHOUSE.

Springfield is face to face with the necessity of providing more space in both city and county buildings. Its new plans involve disposal of the old statehouse, which has served many years to house county offices.

Illinois outside of Sangamon county has an interest in the old building, and there is a disposition in Springfield to take such interest into account in deciding upon what course shall be taken. The nation outside of Illinois has an interest in the building. Every person who has journeyed to Springfield to view the Lincoln tomb and the Lincoln dwelling has found almost equal interest in the old statehouse.

Throughout the county the people of this generation are engaged in restoring buildings of historic value. It is in the nature of things that we do not know what is of historic value until history has so dictated. Perhaps it only is an act of Providence that the old statehouse still stands. If we may judge by other and usual events, no particular sentiment was attached to conversion of the statehouse into a courthouse. Probably it was considered as so much salvage. If there had been such sentiment, it is not likely that the building would have been raised for addition of a story, thus changing the architecture of the historic structure.

Anyhow, by some stroke of fortune the building in which Abraham Lincoln had his office during the political campaign of 1860 still stands in a public square in Springfield. Except for the raising the general architectural appearance is the same as it was when the building served as a statehouse.

Springfield and Sangamon county are considering housing both city and county offices in one building. Two plans are offered, the remodeling of the county building and the erection of a new structure of a modern style of architecture. Whatever plan is adopted should provide for preservation of the county building, which is the statehouse of the days of Lincoln. If the verses of Mary Had a Little Lamb of The Village Blacksmith are of sufficient historic value to cause the school and the blacksmith shop to be purchased and restored, certainly it is worth while to prevent from destruction the statehouse that has been kept in a good state of preservation almost in its original form to this day.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton
NIP-AND-TUCK TOWN

The Twins looked very much surprised to see so strange a person.

"I'm going to be a track," said the pink ticket in Nancy's pocket, sticking out its head and looking around with its pink eyes. "It says on my back that I am to take you to the next station, and I'm going to do what it says."

"What is the next station?" asked Nick.

"It's called Nip-and-Tuck Town," said the ticket.

"Is it in Drowsy Land?" asked Nick, who was still feeling around in his pockets to make sure that none of the vanished money had reappeared. He and Nancy had found bushes of it, you know, and suddenly—puff—it disappeared in a second.

"Yes, Nip-and-Tuck Town is in Drowsy Land," said the ticket. "You will have some queer adventures there."

The ticket began to glide out of Nancy's pocket, and then it laid itself on the ground like a track—a long, long track that stretched as far as they could see, like a railroad; the black lines on the sides became rails and the lines of printing became ties.

The little black patch with the date on it turned into a car, and the Twins got in.

Then the little car rolled along and rolled along and rolled along on the pink ticket-track and finally it stopped at the station of Nip-and-Tuck Town.

The ticket then picked itself up and jumped back into Nancy's pocket again, and then the Twins realized that the little car had dumped them out and disappeared also.

"I wonder why they call this place Nip-and-Tuck Town," said Nick.

"Because it's nip to get in and tuck to get out," said the station agent, which happened to be a large mail-box marked, "Parcels and Letters."

The Twins looked very much surprised to see so strange a person, but everything was so different in Drowsy Land that they were becoming accustomed to it.

"We're looking for Inco, our china elephant that ran off, and Flops, my toy clown who ran off with him," said Nick. "Did you see them?"

"Did they come by rail or by mail?" said the mail-box.

Nancy and Nick looked at each other. They knew the runaways had come on a moonbeam, but it did sound too silly to say so. "We're not quite sure," said Nancy.

"Well," said the mail-box kindly. "I shall look in all my letters and newspapers—perhaps there is news of him there."

The mail-box took a key out of his pocket and unlocked his front door. Out spilled a hundred letters and papers and about six parcels!

"Oh, dear!" said Nancy, "they are all in envelopes."

"That doesn't matter, does it?" asked the mail-box in surprise.

"Of course it does. You can't open a letter that doesn't belong to you. Can you, Nick?"

"I should say not," said Nick.

"But if you have your name on it's different," said the mail-box. "Here is one addressed to the Twins, Nip and Tuck Town, Drowsy Land on the Moon."

"Well, I declare!" said Nancy. "Whoever knew we were here?"

"Oh, lots of people," said the mail-box. (To Be Continued)

"Hangs around the counter, lookin' over candy trays. You can see a twinkle in the little fellow's eye. Think of it! A nickel—and the whole thing can be spent. Asks ahead of questions, like, 'How many for a cent?'"

Now he's sorta stoopin' with his nose against the glass, payin' no attention to be other folks who pass. Just inside the counter are the best things he can find. Jimmy's rym' mighty hard at makin' up his mind.

On account of water conditions many people are compelled to use city water for washing and are inconvenienced because of its hardness. To overcome this add one teaspoonful of Rub-No-More Washing Powder (the Original 6c Water Softener) to each gallon of city water. IT SAVES SOAP.

Besides its 15 household usages it is the only cleanser that will clean sinks and tubs and dissolve upon rinsing. No sand left to clog drain pipes.

New York—Soldiers of fortune who drift into New York seem, almost invariably, to become taxi-cab drivers.

There is something about the diversity of experience, the hazards of zig-zagging through traffic jams, the whirl of life in the Broadway belt that appeals to adventurous and jaded natures.

Perhaps no occupation in all Manhattan attracts such varied types.

Time was when taxi-cabbing offered a fat field for the ex-convict, stick-up man and blackjacker. What could be more simple than driving a fare to a dark street, pulling a gun and staging a robbery?

Most metropolitan cities have now minimized this danger by causing the driver to be photographed by the police license bureau and displaying his picture and name in a prominent place within the cab.

It's pretty hard to tell just who is driving your taxi in Manhattan and this comes about largely because taxi driving is an easy line to drift into while "waiting for something better to turn up."

During vacation time college boys, many of whom have jazz cars of their own, prefer it to waiting table at summer resorts.

lady who lives in the exclusive Park Avenue belt.

Hailing a taxi the other day she was just getting settled in her seat when she noticed a snake coiled on the bottom of the car.

At her scream the driver, stopped and hastily opened the door. The young lady leaped out, pointing to the snake.

"Must of crawled out of the box my last customer had," commented the driver, explaining that he had just come from moving a vaudeville entertainer, snakes and all, to a Broadway theater.

After the explanation the young lady was horrified to see the driver reach in and pick up the reptile, petting the snake caressingly and talking to it softly.

"You see, ma'am," the driver ventured, "I was a keeper at the Bronx zoo snake-house before I took this job."

WHITE SOX AND CLEVELAND TRY HARD TO ADVANCE

Deadlocked in Effort to Dislodge Mackmen in Second.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Chicago and Cleveland remain deadlocked in their battle to oust Philadelphia from second place in the American League after two sensational pitching performances in yesterday's games.

George Uhle permitted the Athletics only two safe hits, a double by Sammy Hale in the fifth, and a single by Bill Lamar in the ninth, and beat them, 4-1. At the same time, Tommy Thomas of Chicago limited the American League champion Washington club to a brace of singles for a 3-0 conquest.

But the brilliant western achievements failed to extend to St. Louis, where the New York Yanks made their lead over their nearest rivals ten full games by defeating the Browns, 6-5, through home runs by Lou Gehrig and Tony Lazzeri. "Sad Sam" Jones gave the Yankees some exceptional relief hurling in the last three innings and managed to save the day.

Red Sox Winners
Boston evened its series with Detroit by winning, 7-3. The Bostonians scored three times in each the first and seventh. Gibson started for the Tigers, but left before the first inning had been rounded out, although an error by Manush let in the three tallies.

Jess Petty, gray haired Brooklyn left hander, relieved Burleigh Grimes in time to save the day from the attacking Chicago Cubs, 6-5. Grimes had been in much trouble, but managed to survive until the ninth. When it became plain that the spitballer had no chance of putting anybody out, Petty went into action and was the master.

The New York Giants, victims of the St. Louis Cardinals in three straight games last week, were heartened by an assemblage of some 35,000 persons, and proceeded to humble Cincinnati, 10-3. Fourteen safeties, including triples by Lindstrom, Meusel and Kelly told the story. Meusel, who was benched last week for failure to swing his bat opportunely, produced three hits. Pep Young stole second time and scored every time.

Helen Wills, the American woman tennis champion, has made such rapid recovery from the operation performed on her at Paris for appendicitis that, though she does not feel equal to play in the arduous singles at Wimbledon, she hopes to play in the mixed doubles. She will leave Paris next Saturday for London.

Glen Canfield died today without regaining consciousness after being struck yesterday at Detroit with a pitched ball during an amateur game.

A new sand lot record was established when St. Anthony, Class B Detroit amateur club, won a non-hit no-run six inning game from the Order of Foresters by 57 to 0. The winning club made 43 hits. Kairunas, the winning pitcher, faced only 19 men and struck out 13 of them.

Nineteen golfers, through their prowess on the links, today will select themselves from 113 entries to represent the Chicago region in the National open championship, to be played at the Scioto Country Club, Columbus, July 8-10. Play was over the championship course of the Calumet Country Club, and the 19 players who survive today's 36 holes will be added to six Chicagoans who automatically are qualified on account of their skill shown in the 1925 tournament.

Two great golf titles, the American and British opens, have attracted nearly 1,000 swingers of wood and iron to the qualification tests in the United States and England this week.

Tex Rickard will go before the New York State Athletic Commission on Tuesday, to inform the officials regarding his plans for a championship contest between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney in September.

Sidelights

Al Thomas had a great time fooling the boys from Washington with his slow and easy stuff.

Manager Collins is carrying his thumb in an aluminum splint. It is believed he broke it in making a barehanded stab at a hot drive in the Sox Athletics series.

Pitcher Reuther's start yesterday was his first in more than two weeks, having been on the shelf with a sore arm.

Atleock and Schacht, Washington's "clowns of the diamond," drew the most applause with a take-off on "The Big Parade."

John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, has dropped several youngsters from his roll, leaving the team with only 21 players. They are entitled to 25 from June to August 31, indicating that an important deal of some sort impends.

The Cubs moved over to Philadelphia today after Brooklyn took their measure, 6-5.

Connie Mack will be without two of his star infielders for several days. Shortstop "Chick" Galloway is out with injuries, and Jimmy Dykes has been indefinitely suspended for arguing with Umpire McGowan.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS
OF STATE ANNUAL
MEET JUNE 22-24

Convention Will Be in Granite City With Strong Program.

The Illinois Sunday School Association is announcing its 68th Annual Convention to be held in Granite City, Ill., on June 22, 23 and 24.

Letters are going out to pastors of all Protestant churches and church school superintendents in all counties of the state calling for the appointment of delegates from each of the departments of their school. It is confidently expected that the convention will register 2000 to 2500 in attendance.

The program prepared by the officers of the State Association, show that a splendid group of educational specialists have been secured for the occasion. Notably among these are Dr. D. Webster Kurtz, President of McPherson College, McPherson, Kansas, who will deliver a series of addresses on "The Needs of Religious Education." Dr. Kurtz is known by many educators beyond the continent as a master of his subject by having addressed in most acceptable manner the World Sunday School Convention in Glasgow, Scotland, two years ago.

Prof. Edw. R. Bartlett of De Pauw University, Greencastle, Ind., who is announced to lecture and direct the music at the Granite City Convention is very well known in Illinois, this being his third year in succession to carry through this inspiring and educational feature of the convention.

Miss Wilhelmine Stooker of Auburn Seminary, N. Y., will be the Children's Division Specialist and John L. Alexander of Chicago, Director of the American Youth Foundation, will be the specialist on Young People's work. The International Council of Religious Education will be represented by Robt. Davids of Chicago.

H. W. Becker of St. Louis, Mo., recently chosen to be General Secretary of the Missouri Sunday School Council, will be present as Adult Division Specialist. Mr. Becker majored and served in that capacity for several years before becoming General Secretary of his state. Claude E. Tilton of Fairmount, who is said to have put his county on the map, is on the program as the General Officers' Division Specialist.

Dean H. L. Rickert of Lincoln College, Lincoln, Ill., who is President of the Illinois Association, will preside at all the general sessions and John H. Hauberg of Rock Island, Ill., will preside over the several Executive Committee Meetings to be held during the convention.

Every phase of church school work will have some place on the program. Pastors will have a conference period; also School Superintendents and Secretaries as well as teachers of the various departments.

Three major banquets are announced in the program for county, city and district officers for Young People's leaders and for the leaders of Children's work respectively.

Granite City Committees are reported to be hard at work getting ready to entertain this convention in an unexcelled manner. Leonard Carson is announced as General Chairman with J. W. Costley as Financier, Publicity man and director of Parade and W. B. Saegesser as Secretary-Treasurer.

The Y. M. C. A. is given as the Business Headquarters where all delegates and visitors will register before entering convention meetings.

Among some of the special features of the Convention, emphasis is directed to the Roll Call of counties on Thursday night. At that time delegates will be seated together by counties, each county being warned beforehand, to prepare a suitable response when the county is called.

Another feature will be the parade through the central part of Granite City on Wednesday evening. The Church Schools of Granite City and neighborhood are being invited to line up their members and march or ride as a school; also each to prepare one or more allegorical cars or floats. Delegates from a distance will also participate as counties.

The sectional conferences are said to be the strong educational feature of the convention work. All day Tuesday, June 22nd, will be given to this kind of work; especially for county, city and district officers. The night session Tuesday marks the opening of the convention to delegates from the individual schools.

In the opening session of the convention welcome messages will be delivered by the mayor of Granite City, R. E. Robertson; the President of the Commercial Club, Wm. Chapman; the President of the Ministerial Alliance, David Froeschle; and General Chairman of Granite City Committees, Leonard Carson.

RE-DISCOVERING ILLINOIS

By LESTER B. CROSBY

Illinois Chamber of Commerce

Fourteen merchants in Sycamore have put in new store fronts in the last twelve months. A new motion picture house has just been completed with modern "sheps" in the front of the building. Its cost was about $120,000. Across the street a new fire-proof hotel is going up; cost about $125,000.

Down the street a little way a new garage is being started. It will cost about $10,000. In the edge of Sycamore a new industry, the U. S. Art Binder Company, is just completing a new factory. It has come to Sycamore with an established business. It manufactures sample cases, advertising novelties, loose leaf binders, catalog and book covers.

A couple of years ago the Art Craft Products Company came to Sycamore. It does a manufacturing business in plated ware makes lamps, candlesticks, book ends, statuary, picture frames, novelties of many kinds.

Not very long before the coming of the Art Craft Products Company another organization had arrived and moved in—the Hero Furnace Company, manufacturer of warm air furnaces. This company, long established, had units scattered about in a number of places. Much of its work had been done in a Wisconsin city. Now everything is consolidated in Sycamore.

Sycamore is paving practically every street in town with concrete. Its banks are modern, in new buildings with tile and marble finishings. Sycamore's bank resources total about $1,000,000. Its population is about 5,000. Sycamore's development program, now pretty well along, is said to be for an expenditure of about $1,500,000.

Could there be a lesson in the story of Sycamore's development? Might I find here some message to carry to other towns? Has Sycamore any magic that other towns do not have? I went to Sycamore to find out.

When I arrived in Sycamore these thoughts were foremost—

I would ask the men who are doing these things how and why they are doing them; the men who came to Sycamore bringing their plants with them why they came. That seemed a reasonable thing to do. I shall try to be brief. Robert Bloss, president of the U. S. Art Binder Company said: "When we started to hunt for a location we went out, in one day, sixty letters to sixty small towns. We wanted to get into some good, live, small town. We mailed the letters on an afternoon. The next morning before ten o'clock the secretary of the Sycamore Chamber of Commerce had me on the telephone. He said to me something like this:

"I got your letter. I have talked with our board of directors. Can I have an appointment with you tomorrow morning?"

"That impressed us. Here was quick and direct action. We liked the method. It gave us a good first impression. We investigated Sycamore. We found the factories there doing well. We were struck by the progress being made in new buildings, paving, the municipal park.

"The place had a prosperous look. The business men seemed keen and active, not like proverbial small town merchants."

J. W. Becker, president of the Art Craft Products Company, speaks next: "In a vague way I knew there was a place called Sycamore. Finally I began to look around for some spot to locate. In making my selection I had two principal thoughts in mind.

"1—A place where I could make money.

"2—A place where I could live among congenial people.

"With these thoughts uppermost I began to search. I investigated Sycamore along with a number of other towns. When the Sycamore people heard about it they instantly began an aggressive, organized effort to convince me that Sycamore was the town to come to. Briefly they said to me on Sycamore. I'm still sold on Sycamore. I'm accomplishing everything here that I set out to accomplish."

J. V. Patten, president of the Hero Furnace Company, takes his place in the story. He says:

"I was looking for a place where I could bring the scattered units of our organization together. I wanted to reduce overhead. Consolidation would do some of it. I must get away from high rents. I was looking for intelligent labor; also labor of a certain class, primarily grey iron molders. I found these things here but—

"I also learned that the people of Sycamore were anxious, eager to get us. We found them organized in a businesslike way to make us happy and successful here. It was made easy, rather than difficult, for us to get what we wanted here. We were fortunate about one thing—the banks knew us and our business and were willing to co-operate with us in reason. In other words, we found friends in Sycamore. We have been prosperous and happy."

H. B. Fargo, of Geneva, is the man who built the new motion picture house and is building the new hotel and garage. He has some other investments in Sycamore. All of them will total about $300,000 he told me. His business philosophy is:

"If you are going to make money pick a place that is developing. The faster it is developing the better chance to make money. Sycamore is developing. These people are awake, alive. They have faith in Sycamore, believe in it, are confident. They sold me on Sycamore. That's why I'm here."

In all this development in Sycamore the only thing that I found that might be classed as a bonus is this: one day Mr. Fargo chanced to say—

"If I had that lot over there I'd build a hotel on it."

This classic remark was made on Thursday. On Monday morning he was presented with a deed to the lot. A small group of business men, anxious for a good hotel, had got together and bought it. In a couple of instances bonds were sold to Sycamore business men. But they were certain that the bonds were good. Sycamore does not lean to the bonus method of getting plants that may prosper and may not.

William F. Pagel, president of the Turner Brass Works, came to Sycamore several years ago. This company makes blow torches, fire pots, braziers, bronze tablets for fraternal organizations, clubs, etc. He said:

"Opportunity to buy into this business brought me to Sycamore. For a year or two I commuted, arriving in Sycamore each morning, leaving at night. Finally we stayed at a hotel here. Then we rented a home. Adjusted, we became fixed. In the beginning we didn't want to live in a small town. We never had. But once we tried it we liked it. You couldn't get us out now."

I have not tried to convince that Sycamore is a marvel town. That's the last thought I want to convey. It's background is normal; the town itself normal. First settlers came in about 1825, mostly from New England. Once, a half century or more ago, it had a boom. C. W. and W. W. Marsh, inventors of an early type of reaper, manufactured here.

Finally a knot-tying machine was invented. The Marsh brothers refused to pay royalty and more progressive manufacturers forged ahead of them. The business petered out, vanished. That was a blow from which Sycamore did not recover for two generations. Sycamore, you see, has no exclusive secret for success.

It is on two railroads, about fifty-six miles from Chicago a trifle north of west. It is on concrete roads. Up to four or five years ago it was as like the average mid-west town as one pea is like another. Sycamore had dull, drab years in plenty. Sycamore has a few old, reliable industries which have worked on through the years. Two are the Chicago Insulated Wire & Mfg. Co. and the Illinois Wire and Cable Co. The latter plant uses 20,000,000 miles of cotton thread a year for insulation. It consumes about 100,000 pounds of copper daily. Interesting but not startling. Then what has Sycamore that sets it apart?

Very little I would say except a spirit and determination to succeed, a determination which has developed the sort of town in which an ambitious man can make money and live among congenial people. That seems to be the keynote. I have a folder on my desk telling of Sycamore. Its catch line is:

"The home of prosperous industry and 5,000 friendly people."

Friendly people and a spirit that has been developed within to put business on a progressive basis; that's about all I can see that has given Sycamore its remarkable impetus. Then is it difficult to be friendly? Or united?

It may mean fourteen new store fronts in a year.

'Grandma's wire came this morning and before dinner I had refinished her favorite chair with Duco—two coats too!'

DUCO is famous for quick drying. But that is not its only advantage for home decorating.

Here at last you have a finish that can be successfully applied by anyone. Just brush it on.

Try DUCO on furniture, woodwork, floor or wall. See how easily it brushes on, how quickly it dries, how the brush marks disappear, and then the final hard, lustrous finish that never chips, peels, cracks or fades.

Here are some of the things you can do with DUCO:

- finish the kitchen floor with DUCO in the morning and get lunch in the kitchen that noon
- do a perfect "white enamel" job on your woodwork without requiring the use of any of the usual undercoats
- finish your automobile with DUCO on Saturday afternoon and drive it that evening.

We carry DUCO in sixteen popular colors and black and white. Any special shade can be secured by intermixing.

GUM-DIPPING
the Extra Process for Extra Miles!
Breaks all Tire Records

The 500 Mile Speed Classic at Indianapolis has always been a Battle of Tires. In 1911, Firestone won with fabric tires at 74.59 miles per hour. In 1920, Firestone won with cord tires at 88.55 miles per hour. In 1925, Firestone won with Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons at the record breaking average speed of 101.13 miles per hour.

In 1926, Firestone again won with Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons. The ten cars to finish "in the money" were all Firestone-equipped. They went the distance without a single blowout and with but two tire failures—one due to a puncture and the other to a leaky valve.

This performance is even more remarkable when you consider the terrific speeds at which the cars traveled over this fifteen-year-old, rough brick track.

Experienced race drivers will not risk their lives or chances of victory on any other tires. And in the commercial field, large truck motorbus and taxicab fleet operators, who keep careful cost records are among the big users of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

The City Transportation Co., of Tacoma, Wash., writes: "One of our 12 buses on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires has gone over 40,600 miles and still looks good for many miles of extra service. For all around tire safety and mileage, Firestone cannot be beat."

From Calumet Motor Coach Co., Hammond, Ind., the following: "We operate 40 buses all equipped with Gum-Dipped Tires. The very low cost per mile on which these tires operate is considerably less than that of any other make." Hayes Bus Lines, Columbia, S. C., say: "We operate 19 buses equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. A number of these tires have run over 45,000 miles without ever having been removed from the rim."

The largest taxicab companies in the world standardize on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. W. R. Rothwell, taxicab operator, Detroit, Mich., writes: "Two of my Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have run 76,000 miles."

Hundreds of thousands of car owners voluntarily testify to the safety, comfort and economy of Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons. W. H. Peacock, Birmingham, Ala., testifies: "I have had Firestone Balloons for thirteen months and they have delivered in that time 24,469 miles." H. C. Staehle, Minneapolis, Minn., says: "My Firestone Balloons have gone 49,900 miles and are still in good condition."

These records of endurance, speed, safety and mileage could only have been made because of Firestone development of the Gum-Dipping process which insulates and saturates every fiber of every cord with rubber, reducing friction and heat and building greater strength and endurance in the cords—assuring you at all times—

RELATIVE GROWTH OF THE TELEPHONE IN U. S.

An interesting comparison between population and the number of telephones in the United States is shown by the fact that in 1880 there was one telephone to every 1,064 inhabitants; in 1890, one to every 280 persons; in 1900, one telephone to every 57 persons; in 1905, one to every 21 persons; in 1910, one to every 12 persons; in 1915, one to every 10 persons, and today, one to every 7 persons.

Even at the present time telephones are growing much faster in the United States than is the population. The population of the country is now increasing at the rate of one and one-quarter per cent a year, while telephones are growing at the rate of about 5½ per cent a year.

BROKEN HEARTS of HOLLYWOOD

BY EDWARD CLARK

Copyrighted by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"BROKEN HEARTS OF HOLLYWOOD" with Louise Dresser is a Warner picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mutually attracted, Betsy Terrell and Hal Chutney arrive in Hollywood as prize winners of newspaper contests for movie try-outs. They are depressed by the number of people seeking work. Movie auditions see a mysterious resemblance in Betsy to someone they cannot remember. Hal flops miserably as a cowboy. Betsy witnesses the humiliation of Virginia Perry, erstwhile star, now a fallen woman. Betsy modestly dreads appearing in the abbreviated bathing suit she has been given to wear. She meets McLain, famous screen boss.

CHAPTER VII.—Continued

Gradually this tongue-tied left her. McLain was so convincingly friendly. Mrs. Perry and Clara seemed to like and respect him. And as they waited for the director to finish his profound impromptu decisions as to the scene action, and for all the other welter of work that precedes actual shooting to subside, Betsy found herself confiding to him piece-meal—and to Mrs. Perry and Clara, of course, incidentally—the story of her constant success, of her ambitions. It was such a relief to reach sympathetic ears, to have the counsel and advice of experienced lips.

Meanwhile, the bathing girls had congregated in another group nearby and were drawing their own conclusions as to McLain's obvious sudden interest in Betsy. McLain's screen prowess as a heart and home wrecker was the only thing known about him by the riff and raff of studioland; and, in the parlance of that atmosphere, he had a "reputation" for a private life that matched his famous screen roles.

Presently the hard work of making a moving picture scene started. Time after time the director rehearsed all hands—parts and extras. The action required of the bathing beauties, including Betsy, was simple enough; at a signal they were to effect a surprise emergence from behind shrubbery into the midst of a garden party given by McLain, run lightly around the brink of a lawn pool, and then dive in, while amazed guests, startled by this latest profanity of their host, applaud in delight.

"Ditch the robe, kid!" said Clara.

Betsy kept her bathrobe on during the rehearsals, at a whispered word from Clara that she did not think it would be noticed.

Then the awful moment came.

"O. K. Now we'll grind!" called the director.

"Ditch the robe, kid!" said Clara. Betsy could not restrain the shivering of her body and the whole sale flush of embarrassment that stained it, as she stood now in just the scant swimming suit in the broad sunlight of a California forenoon. Her affrighted eyes took comfort in the fact that, apparently, not a soul of the men or women on or near the set was paying the slightest attention to her. To one and all, this was but a conventional display in every day's work.

But the bathing girls at hand, unhampered now by the wrath of Virginia, took suerering note of her perturbation. Their indifferent friendliness of the beginning had given way now to a certain amount of resentment because of Betsy's continued attitude, inexplicable to them, and because of the championing of the contest girl by Mrs. Perry and Walter McLain.

McLain! He was their cue for nasty digs.

"Innocence is a great line," whispered one as they awaited the command to enter the set. Ostensibly her remark was intended for the ears of her companion alone, but in reality she deliberately pitched it high enough for all the girls, including Betsy herself, to hear. "Didja notice how the Great Lover fell for it?"

"Yeh," muttered the slatty blonde cattishly, in the same tone and manner, "I've been hearing that McLain is after fresh conquests, and he's a quick knocker-out, believe me, with janes who pretend to be plaster saints!"

Clara, furious, raised her hand and stepped forward to slap the face of the blonde, while Betsy, beside herself with horror at the insinuations, choked back a scream with one tightly clenched little fist, though she could not also stem her quick burst of tears.

But before the situation could come to a climax, the bark of the director, signalling to the bathing beauties their cue to trip in upon the lawn set, intervened. The habit of work was strong upon these girls; the mental mechanics of earning their daily bread by drabs and drabs made them automata of discipline. Clara literally paused at the blonde's throat, to turn and with an instantaneously assumed smile lead the blithe dance around the tank.

Betsy, under no such lash of necessity or stern experience, stumbled blindly, haltingly, in their wake; anger and shame had sapped the spring from her young legs, the strength from her body. And when, a few moments later, she dove into the tank with the others, who were ranged equidistant around its rim, she became a victim of fright and pent-up emotion as the shock of the cold water struck her.

Helplessly, she sank to the bottom of the tank, in a dead faint.

It was Clara who first saw her plight, and dove to her rescue. Then McLain and Virginia, regardless of the inexorably grinding camera, jumped to the edge of the pool and cried out in their alarm. In an instant the whole set was in an uproar.

Betsy, more dead than alive, was fished to the surface by Clara, with the help of the other girls, now guiltily frightened at the realization of the nearly fatal results of their tormenting.

Studios are ever ready for emergencies. Skilled medical assistance brought Betsy around, and presently she was seated, now fully re-clothed, in her dressing room, resting before looking up Hal and starting for home.

Meanwhile, the grinding of the McLain lawn party bathing scene went merrily, if belatedly, ahead on the set below, with Miss Baker, after all, in the swimming girl part for which she had been originally cast until displaced by Betsy's arrival.

And the director, although he had not been able to make too heartless a public display of his wrath because of the almost tragic nature of the happening, had vowed in his heart of hearts, and sworn by all the celluloid gods, that never again would that clumsy, blundering kid who had nearly drowned herself work for him.

His all-seeing eyes had not missed a single detail of her dead, springless entrance upon the set; her awkward, fumbling pose; her botched dive. And directors remember first impressions when casting future pictures!

CHAPTER VIII.

Marshall, with the race-old wisdom of a hunter of human hearts smiling remotely in the depths behind the searching frontal glint of his eyes, was dropping from his sly words like juice from a poison berry, was awaiting the tyroes when they came home at the end of their first studio day.

Marshall read signs as a sailor reads the weather; legs are the barometers of human spirits, even as eyes and faces are the mirrors of the soul. And Betsy and Hal, trudging toward the porch where Marshall stood on the top step, did not stride along with the snap of healthy interest or the sure tread of unimpaired confidence. Their feet were heavy with the glutted downcast mercury of subsided hope; their faces were dull.

"Well, how did you like it? Have a good day?" Marshall beamed. Hal shrugged without replying, but his instantly discovered in Marshall's friendly and encouraging manner an antidote for her blues. She gave him back, wanly, smile for smile. And when they all were seated on the porch, Betsy frankly confessed the day's dispiriting trials, the while Hal sat in moody silence.

Hal's fists ached to knock from Marshall's eyes the hot greed that gleamed there as he covertly drank in the fresh and unutilized picture of Betsy's young charms; charms that to Hal were as endearing as they were inflaming to Marshall.

But other thoughts pushed their way into Hal's mind. While Betsy continued to chat with Marshall, Hal began to ponder the day's events. After their respective misadventures neither Betsy nor he had done a thing except sit around in Cameron's office while that harrassed man tried to think of loopholes where they might be squeezed in to earn their salary. But early in the afternoon he had given up and dismissed them with the injunction to report again next morning.

Flashes of Life

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington—It looks like this fall-plaster-business is due for a congressional investigation. More of it fell Sunday while President Coolidge was attending church services in a theater. The First Congregational Church, where he usually worships, has been closed for plaster repairs, and the President next year will have to vacate the Executive Mansion while the weakened roof is strengthened.

New York—Nicolo Covello, 79, an English musician who had played before several of Britain's crowned heads, visited Coney Island yesterday, became angrier at jazz played on musical devices and dropped dead. "Stop that music" were his last words.

Belleville, N. J.—Children conducted Sunday services in the Pewmish Presbyterian Church. Howard Buckley, 11, was in the pulpit.

Philadelphia—There's not much of an inducement to join the customs or prohibition staff in this news. Customs officials here turned coal heaters.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN and FAY MILBURN buy a home of their own shortly after their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer is a new contract.

Previous chapters told how John, a romantic individual, was fascinated on meeting NEIL ORME, of whom PAT FORBES, one of John's best friends, hints that she was having trouble with her husband.

DR. DICK MENEFEE marries MARGARET WAYNE and John is best man. Margaret's younger sister, CLARA, runs away and marries CLIFTON LANE, whom John cordially dislikes.

A party is given by NOEL and VERA BOYD, and Vera shows an interest in John which he does not return. Nevertheless, Fay Milburn notices it, and there is a quarrel between her and John.

Noel Boyd later boasts of the arrangement between him and his wife, Vera, whereby each leaves the other free to do as he pleases. John and Fay Milburn show some surprise and Noel angrily accuses them of being "conventional fars" and hypocrites.

Fay and the Milburns' baby, JUDITH, go to Washington to visit Fay's relatives and John, after weeks of loneliness and hard work, discovers that Pat Forbes' wife is away and the two of them get together. The Ormes, knowing their wives are away, invite them to dinner.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY (The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XXV

TOWARD ORME. John thought it was very cordial, although it was impossible for the silent, tight-lipped Howard to make much of a demonstration.

"Mighty glad we were able to get hold of you so Pat could bring you over," he said to John, and Neil said "I think we're mighty fortunate to get hold of two such handsome grass widowers in one afternoon."

"Be careful, Neil," laughed Forbes. "It's Sunday afternoon," and Neil smiled as she walked back to the kitchen.

At dinner she asked John, "And how long have you been a bachelor, Mr. Milburn?"

"Oh, several weeks now. I'm beginning to get a little fed up on it too."

"I should think so. Where is Mrs. Milburn—visiting her people?"

"Yes—in Washington. We're both in the same town, you know."

"Marian's been away just three days," put in Forbes. "And she's coming back in a week. I'm groaning. 'John, you don't know how lucky you are.'"

"Oh, Pat, you're incorrigible!" Neil laughed, and John was forced silently to admire the flashing beauty of her white teeth.

Howard glanced across at John at Pat's remark, and smiled silently. Somehow, John was forced to concede that this Howard Orme might not be such a bad fellow, after all. He was cold and silent, and grim at times, but John felt that some sort of tragedy, rather than a sour disposition, lay at the bottom of Howard Orme's demeanor.

It was more than he could understand. Here was a man—young good-looking—with a pretty nice income and a glorious woman for his wife. Yet there was trouble between them, some unspoken thing that people could only guess at, and John wondered what it was.

Jealousy on Howard's part? Well, Pat Forbes had told him he didn't think so, although Neil was beautiful enough and just flirtatious enough to tempt him.

And toiled for hours in the bunker of a ship to uncover contraband whiskey.

Seattle—Alonso Victor Lewis, a Seattle sculptor who has just completed a bust of Road Amundsen, says the explorer's face is one of the strongest he ever had modeled. "Amundsen's nose is his predominant feature," he said. "It measures three inches long."

Conway, North Wales—Mrs. Jane Jones, owner of the smallest house in Great Britain, is dead. This tiny habitation on Conway quay has a frontage of six feet. It is 16 feet 2 inches high and from back to front measures about eight feet, four inches. Twenty-five years ago the house was tenanted by a man six feet three inches in height.

Dublin—Ireland is going to insist on having the "real bouquet" in her whiskey after the present year. Next year it will be illegal to sell in the enough to cause uneasiness on the part of any husband. No, John didn't think it was jealousy either.

Financial difficulty—the root of so much marital discord? John glanced around the room at the rich furnishings. Expensive, obviously. Besides, Pat Forbes had told him that Howard Orme was making plans.

Well then, what was it? Were they intellectually mismatched? If they were it never cropped out. Both of them seemed intelligent enough. Neil especially. And although Howard said little, nevertheless on the rare occasions when he did have something to say he said it pretty well.

Howard seemed pleasant enough talking to Pat Forbes, whom he seemed to like and who seemed able to draw him out better than anyone John had yet seen.

It was along toward the end of dinner before John was able to tell himself just what it was that had seemed peculiar about Howard Orme. He never spoke to Neil. That is, he never spoke to her unless it was necessary. When he spoke to Pat or John it was as if Neil were an outsider. He asked her routine questions, such as whether she would have another helping of vegetables, and that was all.

They've been quarreling, John decided, and felt a sudden wave of pity for Neil Orme—whose whole nature he knew, cried out for love and warmth and laughter—tied to this cold, taciturn man.

When Neil rose from the table, Howard immediately made for the living room. Pat Forbes following him, and John lingered to help her clear away the dishes.

She protested. "You mustn't do that, Mr. Milburn. Go in and join the men. I'll be finished in a few minutes. Our maid has Sundays off—we go out to eat so much on Sundays, you know—and I feel like apologizing for doing this now. I just hate to see things lie around like this."

He waved her remarks aside. "Lots of fun," he lied, for he hated the very thought of housework. He found himself watching her intently as she moved about, admiring the indolent grace of her and wondering whether she realized the wealth of her physical charm.

Seemed cheerful enough, John thought, and made laughing remarks about "husbands at play with their wives away," and their talk turned somehow to their first meeting.

"I remember it as plainly as though it were yesterday," John told her. "You swam so fast and I got so tired trying to catch you that I was sore for days afterward."

There was bridge later on, and Howard, who had been talking in low tones with Pat Forbes, was once more light-lipped and alert when Neil came in the room.

"They have me puzzled," John said to Pat when they were leaving. "Anybody could see they had been quarreling before we came in. But why

National Turnfest to Attract Great Crowds

Louisville, Ky., June 14—(AP)—Prospects for the thirty-third national Turnfest, which officially opens here on Tuesday, "are so bright that indications point it will be one of the best ever," William Voker, national secretary of the American Turnbund, said on arrival here. A general reception for the 5,000 Turners who have arrived for the meet comprises tonight's program. Tomorrow the Turners take the field to determine athletic supremacy. Track, field, gymnastic and apparatus work, marked by a mass drill on Saturday in which 5,000 are expected to participate, will occupy them until next Sunday when the fest comes to a close.

Everything washed in rainsoft water

It's no wonder that clothes cleaned our Wet Wash come back to you so snowy and fresh. Numerous changes of pure, foamy suds remove, without rubbing, every vestige of dirt; then floods of crystal-clear, rainsoft water rinse them free of soap.

Returned damp, ready to iron

After the excess water has been removed by a process that eliminates all the wear of a wringer, the clothes are returned to you clean and sweet and just damp enough to starch and iron or hang out to dry.

Costs only a few cents a pound

All the washing has been cared for—only the lighter work of ironing is left for you. Wash-day toil has been reduced by a whole day. Yet the cost is only a few cents a pound, much less than the true cost of the time you would spend in washing. Today—phone us to call for this week's wash.

GAY "SLICKERS" LEND COLOR TO DARK, WET DAY

Sheiks and Shebas All Like 'Em Loud; Many Various Colors.

Bright spots on the landscape which serve to chase the gloom of a rainy day in Dixon are the multitude of vari-colored rain garments which make their appearance on the street in a miraculously short space of time when a cloud passes over the sun.

Red coats, blue coats, green coats and speckled ones—
Yellow coats, orange coats, and lavender freckled ones—all rally troop along Dixon streets on a rainy day.

Oh, How Nasty
An umbrella-less and raincoatless individual caught in this morning's shower paused a while in the lobby of a First street store this morning and idly checked off with a pencil on the back of an envelope the different varieties of hues and shades of slickers covering the sheik and fapper forms that hurried by.

He became so interested in his survey that he continued the audit for 10 minutes after the rain ceased before he was brought to his senses by a

Mexico Reducing Army: Spends Money for Roads

Tucson, Ariz., June 14—(AP)—While Europe is talking peace and preparing for war, Mexico rapidly is reducing her standing army. It is stated by Division General Francisco Serrano, secretary of war during the regime of President Alvaro Obregon.

General Serrano returned to Mexico recently after an extensive tour of Europe, where he was sent to investigate the military establishments of the various countries.

"For the first time in its history the Mexican government has money and instead of spending it in preparation for war, it is using it on roads and other civil improvements," he said.

Theosophist Says Christ is Hastening His Coming

London, June 14—(AP)—Dr. Anne
Besant, president of the Theosophical Society, says that Christ is "hastening his coming slightly" to take the body of Krishnamurti, the young Indian, who was recognized at the convention of the Theosophists in London last Saturday as the "New World Teacher."

Dr. Besant, according to the Daily Sketch, asserts that Christ is still living in a physical body in the Him-alaya Mountain and that she has heard him say that he is coming.
Certain things had happened which placed the fact to her beyond dispute.
"We had thought his coming would have been later," Dr. Besant added, "but the world is in a state of crisis which may have led him to use the words that he is 'hastening coming slightly.' We are now talking quite plainly so that Christ may not have the treatment he had in Palestine 2,000 years ago. One does not use the words I am using at my age and with my past without sincerity."

Work and Profits

Through the First Stock Purchasing Plan, 15,325 employees became joint owners of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), sharing in the profits of the Company.

Under this plan, initiated five years ago and just completed, the Company added 50 cents to every dollar paid in by the employees toward the purchase of the Company's stock.

This liberal arrangement met with enthusiastic response.
By the careful thrift it encouraged, the employees were able to save $11,800,000 to invest in Standard Oil Company (Indiana) stock.

Recently they received stock to the value of $25,350,000, representing, in addition to their subscriptions, the stock added by the Company under the terms of the plan, plus the ordinary dividends.

Thus five years of installment paying on stock of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) brought employees of the Company an appreciation of $13,550,000.

The only stockholder receiving a larger share of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) profits is a philanthropic organization—the Rockefeller Foundation—established "to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

The Rockefeller Foundation receives 5.4% of the total dividends, while the employees receive 4.2%.

The fact that the employees of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) receive the second largest share of its profits is highly appropriate.

The work of the loyal employees of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is of a kind deserving generous encouragement, worthy of reward.

They work energetically, secure in the knowledge that their efforts will be appreciated.

They work enthusiastically, certain of friendly co-operation and helpful encouragement from the management.

They work harmoniously together, conscious of the high creed of service which binds them into a single united force.
The work of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employees is of a kind that cannot be commanded or forced, it must be inspired by such deeply human things as loyalty and faith and true devotion. It must be sustained by a simple delight in doing things well.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) owes its success to work of this calibre, carried on in every phase of its activity by a vast army of loyal men and women—the employees.

The profits received by employees, who also are stockholders, represent an incidental reward for the kind of work that is done for the joy of the doing—the kind of work that is responsible for the service the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to render the thirty million people of the Middle West.
